

Snacks/Food Sent to School Reminder

With Valentine's Day just around the corner, I wanted to send out a reminder regarding our expectations for snacks and foods that come to school for your child's classroom.

If you are sending in foods/snacks to school to share with others, please only send foods that are prepackaged and store bought. We have several students with food allergies, and it is essential that we are able to double check all ingredients.

It is important that each child be able to fully participate in all class activities. With your assistance, the classroom can be a safer environment for all students. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out.

Sincerely,
